

FREEZING TUBES

These are the suspended animation, or freezing tubes where the space family will spend the five and a half years of their voyage. When the family enters the tubes electro-magnetic miracles will come into play. A cosmic glow induced by the genius of advanced technology will freeze the Robinson family into a state of suspended animation enabling them to make a lifetime flight while aging but a second in the time of man.

At right is an illustration showing the path of the freezing element into the tube.
