

Their assistant, Doctor Donald West, of New York City, is the same young man who, last year, rocked the scientific world with his theory since amply confirmed, that a planet's fitness for human habitation can be determined solely from its geology.

. . . Their daughter, Judith, age nineteen, who has rather heroically postponed all hopes for a career in the musical comedy field for the next two centuries at least.